Electronic World

In this world, almost everything involves electronics. Our society revolves around it! Whether it is banking, building a car, having fun, or even typing this essay. Someday scientists say that you will not even have to leave your home because of electronic robots that will do everything for you!

The reason I chose this topic was because I have been caught up in the electronic rush. I can't live one day without playing on my Playstation 2, Nintendo DS lite, or on the computer. I have so many games I can't keep track of them all. I keep buying more games and more consoles. Right now, I am saving up for a Nintendo DS I, the newest one of the series that is sort of a mini laptop computer. It can play Gameboy Advance games, Nintendo DS games, take pictures, and goes on the internet.

My sister-in-law have a PSP (Playstation portable) and a Wii. She says they are really fun and cool. My brother builds websites for his occupation. He got his start when he paid $250,000 to build his first website ComicsTrader.com. Now he has built three other sites from scratch on his own. I plan on going into the same business as him because he has told me I could be vice president.

Just in my family we all have or will rely on technology for our occupation. So if families' lives depend on technology, so will other American families.
